Grizzlies Growl, Cats Yowl as Rivalry Resumes

By JERRY HOLLORON.
The Montana Grizzlies will lead the MSC Bobcats by a whopping 494 points even before the kickoff as the rivals renew grid warfare tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

The lead won't help the Grizzlies win tomorrow, however. It represents the total winning margin MSU has compiled in 61 games against MSC.

Since 1897, the Grizzlies have scored 981 points against MSC, compared with the Bobcats' 487. MSU has won 40 games, lost 15 and tied 6.

Football rivalry between the teams started with MSU's 18-6 victory over the Bobcats in 1897. The teams played on a nearly even basis until 1912, when Montana started a string that ran to five victories. After a series of ties, the Grizzlies in 1920 started an even more devastating series of victories, which did not end until a scoreless tie in 1928.

Longest Win Streak

MSU's longest winning streak stretched from 1933 until 1947. During that time, the Grizzlies beat the Bobcats 10 times, eight times by holding the College squad scoreless.

In 1948, MSU returned to the win column and stayed there until 1956. It was then that the Bobcats started a win streak that was not snapped until 1960. Last year, in Bozeman, the Bobcats edged the Grizzlies 10-9. Since 1950, the Grizzlies have won 7 of 12 games from MSC.

The biggest single victory for the Grizzlies was in 1904, when they shut out the Bobcats and unleashed a 79-point barrage. In 1899 and 1902, it was MSC by 38-0 tallies.

Cats Sport Best Record

MSU goes into the game Saturday with a 3-4 win-loss season record, compared with MSC's 6-2 record. Both have defeated Idaho and Idaho State and both were beaten by Utah State. The only other common opponent was North Dakota. The Grizzlies lost to the Sioux, 14-8, but the Bobcats beat them 16-3. However, records can usually be disregarded in an MSU-MSU game.

The Grizzlies will be concentrating on stopping the Bobcats' devastating passing attack. But "a lack of speed in our secondary and in our line" hampers MSU's pass defense, Coach Ray Jenkins said.

Montana is at its maximum strength and potential, Jenkins said, noting that Tom Hauck, center, Carl Schwertfeger, left tackle, and Bill Ellison, end, scrimmaged Wednesday. All had been sidelined by injuries.

Rosters

halfback; Will Fennal, 180, right halfback, and Bucky May, 195, fullback.

Students Rally

The MSU student body can do much to help the Grizzlies, Jenkins said. Jim Erickson, Traditions Board chairman, said that students have already started preparing for the game.

Signs designed by Les Hankinson and Gene Buck and made by Publicity Committee have been distributed around campus, as have signs made several years ago for the Grizzly-Bobcat game. Stickers reading "Beat the Cats!" have been distributed by the athletic department. Most living groups will have special decorations.

A snake dance will form at 6:30 tonight in front of the Sigma Nu house and proceed to a bonfire near the Field House.

Hankinson and Jim McKie will join the regular cheerleaders at the game.

Seating for about 7,500 fans is available and officials anticipate a "sell-out crowd."

Sections J and K in the east bleachers are reserved for Bobcat fans and sections L, M and N on the same side are reserved for MSU students. Seating for 385 students is also available in the Liberal Arts Building, where the game will be televised live on a closed circuit by the MSU Radio-Television workshop.

1,200 'Cat Supporters

Approximately 1,200 MSC students are expected to attend the game. Five hundred of them will arrive on a special train at 11 a.m. tomorrow and leave at 1 a.m. Sunday.

Swelling the crowd will be several hundred parents on campus for Parents' Day activities.

It may be difficult to continue the tradition that the loser's goal posts become the property of the victor. After the 1960 game, the posts were set in approximately four feet of concrete.

However, student officials from both schools agreed several weeks ago that the tradition would continue and that the losing side would offer no resistance.

A Grizzly-Bobcat mixer sponsored by ASMSU and planned by the Special Events Committee will be held from 9-12 tomorrow night in the Yellowstone Room of the Lodge. Music will be by the Cordials and admission is 50 cents for couples and 35 cents for singles.

Trousers on Line

By tomorrow evening, fans will know whether the Treasure Chest traveling trophy will be returned to Bozeman or will remain in Missoula. They will have seen either ASMSU President Ed Whitelaw or the MSC student president lose his pants. The student governing bodies have agreed that the losing student body president's pants will be the property of the victorious side.

Art Editor to Be Chosen For Venture on Tuesday

Applications for the position of art editor of Venture will be accepted until 4 p.m. Monday at the Lodge desk.

Publications Board will interview all applicants at 4 p.m. Tuesday in Committee Room 3 of the Lodge. All who apply are to be present at this time.

The art editor must have attended MSU for at least one quarter prior to this quarter.

Parents' Day Banquet Planned For 720 Parents, MSU Students

Seven hundred twenty parents and students will attend the Parents' Day Banquet Saturday. Five hundred were served last year.

Anyone who must cancel his reservations for the banquet should return the tickets to box 33 at the Lodge to receive a refund. Others who wish to attend may buy those tickets.

Jeff Lenci, Parents' Day director, said there are many reasons for the great response to the event this year. This is the first time Parents' Day has been held fall quarter, he said, and this has been a contributing factor.

All Soviet Bases Dismantled, Missiles Aboard Ships in Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department reported last night that all Soviet missile bases in Cuba have been dismantled and their nuclear rockets put aboard ships.

This report was based on aerial reconnaissance and the department said further verification of Soviet withdrawal of offensive arms is expected within 24 hours by U.S. warships, "close alongside observation" of the Soviet merchantmen outbound from Cuba.

Shortly before the Defense Department announcement, the State Department had said the at-sea checking does not remove the need for on-site inspection in Cuba to confirm that the nuclear threat to U.S. security has, indeed, been fully eliminated.

Red Chinese Open Attack On Indian Frontier Line

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Red Chinese broke a lull on the Himalayan battle line yesterday with fresh probing attacks. Indians said the action appeared to be a prelude to a resumption of the Communist offensive.

Prime Minister Nehru rallied his people for a war to drive what he called the expansionist, imperialist-minded invaders from "the sacred soil of India."

Long an apostle of passive neutrality, the Indian leader declared the nation's freedom is at stake and warned Parliament to brace for a struggle that might go on for a number of years.

Lenci said winter is so close to Christmas that students have not been away from home for any

Federal Career Program Scheduled for Next Week

A Federal Career information program for University students is scheduled from 1-4 p.m. in the Yellowstone Room of the Lodge, Thursday, according to Robert E. Gorman, director of the counseling center.

Representatives from 18 federal agencies will talk on the professional-level opportunities of the agency they represent.

Agencies which will be represented are: the Bureau of Land Management, Forest Service, National Park Service, Public Health length of time, and the parents do not feel up to traveling in the winter. Spring is too filled with University activities.

Most of all, freshman parents will be attending because they are curious about the classes their sons and daughters are taking and about the living groups they joined.

Service, Food and Drug Administration, Social Security Administration, Bureau of Indian Affairs, Federal Extension Service, Veterans Administration, Fish and Wildlife Service, Soil Conservation Service, Geological Survey, Internal Revenue Service and General Accounting Office.

From 1-2 p.m. individual and small group discussions will be held with the separate agency representatives, Mr. Gorman said. At 2 p.m. a general meeting will feature Robert F. Mello, director of College Relations and Recruitment, U. S. Civil Service Commission, who will speak on "Why Career Planning for Federal Service."

Mr. Gorman said that a special feature of the program will be the acceptance of applications for the Federal Entrance Service Examination. Students who apply at the program will be eligible to take the examination at 8:30 a.m. Nov. 17 in Journalism 304.

"This program is primarily one of career information rather than recruitment," he said.

Ramps, Towers In King Lear Set

Ramps, towers and tilting platforms have been employed in the construction of the set for the Masquers' production of "King Lear." The play opens Nov. 15 in the University Theater.

"The setting is not realistic," its designer, Richard H. James, instructor of drama, explained. "The set makes no attempt to represent any particular place at all."

The scenery, which will be painted in neutral browns and other earth colors, is designed principally for flexibility. Lighting patterns will be used to suggest different types of locales.

The set stretches from the edge of the audience to the back of the stage, and the highest sections will be 9 to 10 feet from the floor of the stage.

Sarah James is building the medieval costumes required for the play. The dresses are from 15 to 20 feet long, and more than 600 yards of fabric will go into the 50 costumes.

Mussulman to Participate In South Dakota Festival

Joseph A. Mussulman, assistant professor of music, is in Huron, S.D. this weekend to direct the South Dakota All-State Chorus at its state music festival.

The chorus will consist of more than 1,000 high school students, he said.

Mussulman has previously adjudicated at music festivals in Lead and Sioux Falls. During the summers of 1958, 1959 and 1960, he directed the chorus at the High School Music Camp at the University of South Dakota.

Friday's Forum Features Fiedler

Leslie A. Fiedler, professor of English, will speak to Montana Forum on his recent stay in Greece at noon today in the Territorial Rooms of the Lodge.

Mr. Fiedler is the author of "Love and Death in the American Novel," a literary criticism for which he has received national acclaim, as well as a collection of essays entitled "An End to Innocence." Last spring his second novel, "Pull Down Vanity," was published.

Mr. Fiedler spent the past year at the University of Athens under the Fulbright program.

Pictures for the 1963 yearbook are now being taken at Catlin's studio. Pictures will be taken from 1 to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday. Fraternity and sorority pictures will be taken at the same time with no extra charge.

The Sentinels for 1961-62 have not been received from the publisher. The publisher has notified the Sentinel staff that unforeseen circumstances have prevented shipping the book. Watch the Kaimin for arrival date.

Because parents here for Parents' Day and students from MSC will be eating at the Lodge Saturday, University students are urged to eat as early as possible. The dining room will be open at 11:00 a.m.

Cynthia Schuster will speak on "Freedom of Thought and Public Relations of a State University," at 11 a.m. tomorrow in LA11. Her speech is part of the Parents' Day program.

It's Never Too Late to Learn How to Hate

It's supposedly been "hate Bobcat week" here for the last few days. Anyway, that's what the news releases say.

Trouble is, there hasn't been an abundance of Bobcat haters running about whipping up the masses to seething indignation at our defeat last year in Bozeman. Perhaps the detrimental effects of the Forester Fling are the cause for this lack of anti-MSU-ism.

Anyhow, it's never too late to start hating. If you want to get into the proper mood for Saturday, go to the snake-line-pep-rally type thing tonight and work up some vituperation. Then come to the game tomorrow and see funny Cow College people—glazed of eye, fresh off the happy train—perform for us.

The Grizzlies will be battling to disprove the "underdog" label. From the records, the odds favor MSU. Our record is 3-4; theirs is 6-2. We have had poor pass defense all season; Montana State has two quarterbacks who throw the ball every other time they have it in their hands. We beat Idaho and Idaho State earlier this year; MSU beat both of them by bigger scores. We lost to North Dakota 14-8; Montana State defeated the Sioux 16-3.

Ray Jenkins' men will have to stop Bobcat passing to win. Last year, the Silvertips controlled the heavier Cats for three quarters and led 9-0 at the start of the final period. In the traumatic final 15 minutes, MSU got their passing game going twice to set up long drives—first for a field goal kick and next for a touchdown and the deciding extra point. We lost 10-9.

Enthusiasm among members of the older generation is evident. Parents and Missoula residents have combined to assure a sell-out crowd. But the brunt of the spirit is always carried by students.

It will be a tough game. The Grizzlies and the Bobcats, like such arch-rivals all over the country, always beat their brains out against each other. Despite the canned dramatics and corniness, there is something good about winning a football game. It's especially satisfying to beat those Bobcats and gloat till next fall, when things begin all over again.

B. Sparrow Says, Sheridan Unaware of 'Dear Intangibles'

To the Editor:

Indeed, 'tis a sad day for Ireland. The thought that the satiric acuteness of Richard Sheridan has been replaced by the pathetic dullness of James Sheridan is as depressing as the bottom of a slimy peat bog on a foggy day. Mirrored through a murky ocean of puny platitudes and abortive attempts to crush the comic muse with ponderous verbal ice-breakers, Sheridan's accusations prove that he, rather than Kelly, is unaware of "the dear intangibles" to which Sheridan himself refers.

What gross historical misunderstanding; what slanderous viciousness allows Sheridan to imply that the culmination of the moral evolution of the Irish and American spirits lead us to the combined slogans "The state is God" and "Always keep your mouth shut?"

Indeed, the major contributions of Irish have resulted from their complete inability to keep their mouths shut. Not only my Irish, but my German and English blood, all happily tinged with the warmth of ethnocentricity and snobbism, boil at Mr. Sheridan's discourse on The Robot: Ideal American Citizen. His private "School for Scandal," unlike R. Sheridan's work, does not see through the superficialities of his own time and society.

The back-biting, intriguing human failures given us on stage by R. Sheridan would be sanctified by J. Sheridan for their cleverness, if they would re-incarnate themselves in 1962 and eagerly sign a loyalty oath.

Let me remonstrate further for Mr. Sheridan. I attack not his defending President Kennedy, but rather the noxious assertions he uses to back up his feelings. For example, American history has its humanists — Washington, Jefferson, Paine—who had a firm eye on "dear intangibles," its less easily definable characters, such as Ben Franklin, who sometimes eyed "dear intangibles" and sometimes colorful, but hardly dear, intangibles, as well as its rogues—Chivington, Custer, Coughlin—who wouldn't have known a "dear intangible" if it had bitten them in the face.

Kelly speaks out under the assumption that American government is based upon "we, the people," not "we, the U.S. foreign policy" or "they the autonomous bureaucratic representatives." Social responsibility does not end in the generalized, Madison Avenue chaos of political campaigns and elections. I am sure the Bill of Rights was not inserted in the Constitution because the founding fathers left 1962 would be the era of the kingdom of heaven, and the capitol would suddenly be crowded by peace-loving, people-loving saints who could do no wrong.

Our most loyal contributions to our country is to develop our individual potentialities and opinions. Order, restraint, and harmony develop out of understanding and airing issues, not out of dogmatic submission.

I believe it is clear whose attitude will be most likely to get himself and America into trouble. It is not much consolation to keep one's mouth shut in the guise of national unity, and lose the world to the greedy, the coniving, and the mentally and spiritually weak who avoid conviction for policy's sake.

PDT Slams Rams

Phi Delta Theta defeated the previously unscored-upon Rams 11-6 yesterday to win the intramural touch football playoffs.
As a result of the victory PDT will oppose MSC's intramural champion Sigma Alpha Epsilon team at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Clover Bowl.
Neither team threatened to score in the first quarter although Phi Delta Theta controlled the ball during the period.
Following a pass interception by Tom Sullivan in the second quarter the Phi Delts moved the ball into scoring position on the 22-yard line. From there Sullivan, who had previously missed a field goal attempt, split the uprights for three points, the first score against the Rams this year.

John Ambrose intercepted a Ram pass on the 25-yard line and returned it to the 12 early in the third quarter to set up another Phi Delt score.
After two incomplete passes, Roger Stromberg tossed to Tom Sullivan who made a leaping catch for the touchdown and a 9-0 lead. The extra point attempt was low.
A 15-yard penalty, one of several during the quarter, lead to the Phi Delta Theta score. With the Rams deep in their own territory, the result of a 15-yard penalty, Dave Targett caught Ram quarterback Bob Rochette in his own end zone for a two-point safety.
Late in this period the Rams pushed Phi Delta Theta deep into its own territory and forced a punt. The kick was partially blocked and rolled to the Phi Delt 19-yard line. From there the Phi Delts were penalized 15 yards, placing the Rams in scoring position on the four-yard line.

Three plays later Rochette hit Barry Koons in the end zone for the Ram TD making the score 11-6. This ended the scoring.
The Phi Delts gained five first downs in the game and the Rams one. PDT completed 8 of 27 passes and had one intercepted while the Rams connected on 7 of 17 passes and had four intercepted.

MSU Meets Cats In Slate of Events
Besides the big game tomorrow between the Grizzlies and MSC Bobcats there are several sports activities planned as sidelights.
A triangular cross-country meet between MSU, MSC and Idaho State College is scheduled for 10:30 a.m., on the University Golf Course.
Coach Harry Adams said the meet will feature separate varsity and freshman competition. ISC will not run freshmen, however.
Running for the MSU varsity will be Marv Miller, LaFay Hope, Glynn DeVries, Larry Jakub and Phil Dwight. MSU freshmen competitors will be Doug Brown, Gene Meyer and Bob Ulvedal.
Phi Delta Theta will hit the Clover Bowl for one more contest at 10 a.m. This will be the annual inter-school game which pits the all-Intramural champions of MSU against the champions of MSC. The team representing Bozeman will be Sigma Alpha Epsilon.
Other Clover Bowl action will feature a touch football game between the MSU Wesley Foundation and the MSC Wesleyans at 10 a.m.
The Army ROTC marksmanship teams from MSU and MSC will compete at the ROTC rifle range at 9 a.m. tomorrow for the annual Betsy Rotcy trophy.
The trophy, an old Army Musket, is currently in the hands of MSC.
The varsity and women's bowling teams will compete against the varsity and women's teams from Bozeman. The matches will get underway at 10 a.m. at the University Lanes.
The Aquamaids and Dolphin Clubs will present a Parents' Day water show tomorrow at 7:15 p.m. at the New Pool.
The Aquamaids will present a water ballet and Connie Griffin, president of the Aquamaids, will swim a ballet solo.
Members of the Dolphin Club will demonstrate diving skills and present a comedy skit.

Food Service Hopes to Expand

By DALE SWANT

If the students vote for the new Student Union Building then the Food Service will be able to expand in the present building and provide much greater efficiency in the food serving, Miss G. D. Chamberlain, director of food services, said. "If the new building is built, the Food Service will probably move part of its facilities upstairs in the present Lodge."

Food Service facilities are serving 500 students beyond their capacity, Miss Chamberlain said. "The department is working to capacity with overly crowded facilities. As the set-up is at present, we have no place to store anything and neither does any other department in the building," she said.

Presently, we have to feed the students hand-to-mouth because we have inadequate refrigeration to store food stuffs in advance. The meals are planned in advance but the food must be delivered the day before or that day for the meals to be served.

Winter quarter, some freshman classes will be scheduled at 12 noon to help control the long lines before meals. She said that this will prevent students from having to stand outside when the weather is bad. The classes are to be scheduled so that an equal number of people will eat before and at noon. If the new building cannot be built, the Food Service will still have to make some kind of plans for increasing its facilities. In addition to making more room for students to eat plans must be made to increase the size of the kitchen.

Presently, one of the biggest space takers is the dishwashing process. This is now in the kitchen and hinders the efficiency of the kitchen because of the amount of space that it requires, Miss Chamberlain said.

With the present trend in enrollment, about a 400 student increase a year, the problem of Food Service will steadily increase. The estimated enrollment figure in just three years is 4,922, but these are conservative figures and the increase may even be beyond that. By 1970, it is estimated that 5,978 students will be attending the University.

Because of these trends in enrollment in estimated figures, which tend to be conservative, Food Service facilities must be planned for well in advance. Therefore, it is necessary to be considering where to serve these students.

With the full capacity of the present Lodge at the Food Service's disposal, there can be adequate space to serve the incoming students, and have ample storage and kitchen space.
